Kids Needs More Parental Help

The subject this week is kids. Two kinds. One gets himself in trouble by shoplifting. The other is the innocent victim of a child molester.

First we'll look at the youngster who steals from stores. He's going to drag his parents into the theft. Parents have to face the court and pay the bill. That's because there's a new law.

It's got teeth. It affects both the youngster and parents. It should encourage mom and pop to be more concerned with whom their youngsters play, where they go and what they do.

The new shoplifting law spells out that responsibility. Here is a synopsis of SB 2063, which became effective January 1.

There is now a mandatory fine of not less than $50 nor more than $500 for a person convicted of shoplifting. The parents of a minor are responsible for the child's acts and are civilly liable to the merchant for the value of the merchandise taken by the minor plus damages of not less than $50 or more than $500 plus costs of prosecution.

The new law also relieves the merchants of criminal or civil liability when he detains the suspect—if he has reasonable cause to do so.

That makes juvenile shoplifting dangerous and expensive. The law was designed to reduce thievery.

Then there is the young innocent who was approached by a sex offender. A local one. The offender lived in Spring Valley. He is 26 years old, 6-1 tall and weighs 200 pounds. He looks like an athlete. As a matter of fact his specialty was coaching sub-teen teams. His background surfaced after he wrote a note to a sub-teen ball player on the team he coached asking her to become mother of their child. Folding money was in the note.

Investigation showed that the suspect had a sizeable record as a sex offender and was registered as such in several communities in which he had lived. The law requires a sex offender to register everytime he moves. That tells police where the offender claims he is but it doesn't tell youngsters and their parents very much—unless they investigate.

The girl's parents, for the first time, realized that even children who indulge in wholesome sports need the watchful eye of concerned parents.

What the above material should tell parents is that they're going to have to exercise greater care in the whereabouts of their kids. They are going to have to investigate the people to whom they turn over their youngsters.

Neither of these responsibilities is onerous. There is seldom a need for subteens and early teenagers going on shopping sprees. Their needs are seldom so great that they can't wait until a responsible person accompanies them. They'll squawk, but a parent can take a lot of squawking to save a $500-plus fine.

Larger organizations such as schools and recreation districts have the manpower and ability to screen their people.

Offenders usually are friendly, willing workers who claim they do it because they love children. Since there is no pay, it is not difficult for them to win assignments.

It is suggested that before children are turned over to non-professionals—even those under the canopy of service clubs, churches or others, and the activity need not be only sports—a small amount of investigation is in order.

Contact your local police—by phone if you wish—and tell them the name of the person under which the child will be performing. Nearly all of these persons will be clean. But if the child is saved from the trauma of one such an experience, it is worth the small amount of time invested.

One area where watchfulness is needed is the sensitivity group where a layman is in charge.

Such cases have not become epidemic in the Lemon Grove-Spring Valley area. And they won't if parents make a mild inquiry into the background of those to whom they release their youngsters.

We suspect that one trip to court because of a shoplifting child will resolve that problem if the warning doesn't.

Stolen Goods Charge Faces Valley Man

A Spring Valley man with an elaborate electronic system to monitor law enforcement radio calls was arrested by Sheriff's deputies last week, and nearly $20,000 in suspected stolen merchandise recovered.

Carl B. Hammett, 36, of 3430 Helix St. was charged with receiving stolen property and later released on $2,000 bail. Detectives from the Sheriff's Lemmon Grove office, accompanied by members of the San Diego police department's fencing detail and an Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms agent made the arrest on January 25 after entering Hammett's home on a search warrant.

Among goods seized were 27 guns, most of which were collector's items, including a set of antique dueling pistols valued at $6,000. Deputy Craig Henderson, of the Lemon Grove office who developed the information necessary to obtain the search warrant, said most of the merchandise has been turned over to the San Diego fencing detail "because they have the manpower to follow up on tracing the suspected goods."

"It appears that the stuff was from throughout the country. One gun was immediately traced to a Wisconsin burglary. Other material may have come from other parts of the mid-West," Henderson said.

In addition to the guns, the officers seized tape recorders, telephones, CB radios, closed circuit television, office equipment and tools.

Serial Numbers Missing Henderson said some items had the serial numbers removed.

"We still have a lot of goods with serial numbers, but if the owner did not have records of those numbers and reported them stolen, we'll have a tough time finding the owner and proving they were stolen," he said.

He said that anyone who can positively identify any of the guns or other merchandise, with or without serial numbers, may contact the San Diego police fencing detail at 801 Market St. in San Diego.

He said five scanners seized

Seeks New Members, Better Image

LG Chamber of Commerce Hikes Membership Dues

Directors of the Lemon Grove Chamber of Commerce last week voted to raise annual membership dues from $36 to $40.

The move is an effort aimed at trying to meet chamber costs expected to exceed projected income for 1977 by an estimated $600-$700.

Action came on the heels of a financial report by treasurer Carl Lacki who described fiscal 1976 as a "disaster" for the chamber.

He noted that actual disbursements last year had exceeded those projected by about $2,049.

At the same time, several board members called for "aggressive action" in two areas closely related to the chamber's fiscal woes: membership solicitation and a public relations program geared to improving its image.

After much debate, the board authorized Chamber President Bob Guest to hire a team of professionals in the field of membership solicitation, contingent upon an investigation of the team's credentials.

However, the proposal was not without opposition.

Lemon Grove Fire Chief Bob Adams suggested the membership drive would be pointless "if we are not doing anything viable right now and have nothing to offer."

Some directors also voiced the opinion that members seemed to feel they "aren't getting much for their money" since "so little is ever heard about chamber activities."

The chamber's record was defended by other directors who cited a number of the organization's accomplishments, ranging from small community improvement projects to the current campaign for Lemon Grove's incorporation.

Chamber Vice President Dr. Griff Clark noted that while the Committee for Incorporation was now handling the promotion of that issue, the initial effort had been spearheaded by the chamber.

Board member Olin Thompson blamed the dwindling support for the chamber in part on a "lack of communication" between the organization and the business community.

He urged implementation of an "aggressive public relations program."

Regarding the financial report given earlier in the meeting, it was pointed out that the chamber was around $2,860 in arrears in the collection of dues.

It was also reported that while 211 members were on the chamber rolls, only 131

Tax Strike Likely Says Lecturer Due in L.G. Mon.

The growing conflict between the taxpayer and IRS will be the subject of a talk to be given Monday night at 8 at San Miguel School, 7059 San Miguel ave., Lemon Grove.

The speaker is Dr. Martin A. Larson, a nationally-known author, lecturer and columnist, whose work has appeared in PARADE, PLAYBOY, U.S. NEWS, SPOTLIGHT, TAX STRIKE NEWS and other publications.

Dr. Larson says "people are no longer just talking — millions are acting." Observers say there is an incipient tax strike . . . that the current discussions about tax refunds are not solving the problems.

He is also scheduled to talk at El Cajon High School, 1035 Madison ave. in El Cajon Friday at 8 p.m.

SDG&E Earnings Doubles in 1976

The San Diego Gas and Electric reported that its net income and earnings per share on common stock had doubled in 1976.

It said the recovery was from the worst year in the company's history.

Net income hit $50.4 million. After meeting preferred dividend requirements, $38.5 million or $2.14 a common share was left.

Net income for the firm was $25.7 million in 1975 with 97 cents for common stock.

Robert E. Morris, president, said the company was not able to recover rising fuel costs in 1975, and that broke the normal pattern of earnings growth. In 1974, SDG&E earned $2.09 per common share.

Here They Are: 61 Candidates Go For 17 Jobs in 5 Races March 8

The March 8 ballot will be a whopper.

Here is a corrected list of candidates seeking posts in five races in the March 8 election. There are 61 candidates but not all ballots will have all of the names. For example, voters in Lemon Grove will not cast for La Mesa Spring Valley school trustees. In Spring Valley, voters will not cast for Lemon Grove City Council; for incorporation, nor for trustees of the L.G. School District.

A complete list of these names will appear in this publication weekly — space permitting — until election for familiarizing readers with the names.

In addition, material concerning candidates will appear weekly. A vignette will be published of each who takes advantage of our invitation to be interviewed and photographed. Several such articles are in this issue. The invitation is intended for all of the candidates. Those who have not been interviewed can save time by calling 469-0101 and make an appointment convenient for them. The invitation is intended for incumbents as well as those who would replace them.

There are 10 candidates for 3 posts of the Lemon Grove School District. They are:

SORRY ABOUT THAT!!! . . . Richard Vogler of 7040 Waite dr., Lemon Grove, employed John Schlaks of San Diego to chop down a 150-ft. high Eucalyptus tree in his back yard. The notch was cut properly and on January 5, about 5 p.m. the place cleared for the tree to fall. Tree didn't cooperate! Vogler reported $20,000 damage to his home and $5,000 to the contents. A neighbor, Steve Bunker, of 7046 Waite dr. reported $6,000 damage to his garage. Bunker's pickup truck was also damaged—to the tune of $500. Vogler is "camping out" until the insurance firm get bids on the repair work.

SINGERS ALL — "The Celebration," one of America's leading "soft gospel" singing groups, will be featured Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. in the Spring Valley Friends Church, corner of Bancroft and Kenwood.

The professional, eight-voice (six here) ensemble share their ministry through music written and arranged especially for them by their director, Ben Markley, and orchestrated by Ronn Huff and Bob Krogstad. In concert, the group performs with the full orchestral backgrounds from their albums, recorded in London, Los Angeles, and Nashville. The records appear on the Dynamic Label, Nashville, and Singcord Label of the Zondervon Corp, Grand Rapids.

The Celebration presents over 250 concerts each year throughout the United States. After the eleven-month tour, most of the members continue their education and new singers are selected from auditions held nationwide.

The group is sponsored by Taylor U., Upland, Ind., a 130-year-old Christian liberal arts college with an enrollment of 1467.

The public is invited to the concert. There will be no admission charge.

Rutger's Recitalist Interprets Mozart In Concert This Sunday

A Rutgers University professor and concert pianist will perform a recital this Sunday as part of the La Jolla Presbyterian Church's sacred music series.

Dr. Thomas Richner, concert pianist, concert organist, nationally noted authority of Mozart, and Rutger's professor, will perform February 6 at 4 p.m. in the church, 7715 Draper ave., La Jolla.

Richner is also the church organist of the First Church of Christ, Scientist (The Mother Church) in Boston.

According to Mrs. Frederick J. Quinn, Chairman of the Sacred music series, Dr. Richner is "delightful entertainment because the performer's sparkling personality and lively sense of humor come through in subtle ways to create an engagingly personal experience."

There is no admission for the recital although a free will offering will be taken.

The church also has facilities for child care.

Additionally, the day before the recital, Saturday, February 5 at 1:4 p.m., Dr. Richner will conduct a workshop on the interpretation of the keyboard music of Mozart.

This will be in the salon of the Bishop's School, 7607 La Jolla Blvd.

Fee for the workshop will be $10 and reservations may be made by calling the Music Department of La Jolla Presbyterian, 454-0715.

Two Local Residents In Marriage Seminar

Roger I. Bailey, Ph.D., of Meta Education and Training Arts, of Spring Valley, and Angelina DeFazio, M.S., of Jamul, will lead a discussion titled "The Delicate Flower — Emerging Couple and Family Patterns Toward Congruent Communication and Change" at the California Assn. of Marriage and Family Counselors Annual Conference, February 11-13, in the San Francisco Hilton Hotel.

"In 1975 over two million Americans were married and one million divorces were granted," says LeRoy Cordrey, Ph.D., president of the 1500 member Association. "The average length of a marriage has declined to a little over seven years. Our members are dedicated to helping people cope with this disruptive force, assist families with their adjustments to each other, and protect the public from unethical marriage and family counselors."

Over 400 counselors from all over the state are expected at the conference and among other topics, they will discuss ways to help "Divorced Persons," "Alcoholic Women," "Runway Youths," "Children of Divorced Parents," and "Child Abusive Parents."

"The paid developments in marriage and family counseling makes it hard to keep current," Cordrey says. "All human care professionals are welcome to attend the conference."

Concert Sponsored By Catholic Daughters

The Catholic Daughters of America Courts of the lower San Diego Diocese are sponsoring a concert under the direction of Zolyan Rozsnyai, former director of the San Diego Symphony, at the University of San Diego Theater on April 23, at 8 p.m.

According to Mrs. Jack W. Meier, General Chairman, this is a benefit for the Catholic Daughters of America Charitable program, primary for the Bishop's Bursar.

Mrs. Robert Ross, Program Chairman, indicated selections for the evening will include vocalists and instrumentalists.

For reservations contact: Mrs. Meier 470-9870 (evenings), Mrs. Ross 582-1107, and Mrs. George Wagner 223-6293.

The Extent Of The Problem Who Are The Child Abusers

This is the third of an eight-part series of articles on the problem of the abused and neglected child, based on "Child Abuse," a pamphlet recently published by the office of State Attorney General Evelle J. Younger.

Child abuse is a leading cause of infant mortality in the United States, and it is estimated that nearly one million American children are suffering from abuse and neglect at any given time. Moreover, approximately one quarter of those children will be permanently injured for life as a result of being maltreated.

In California, more than 55,000 cases of child maltreatment are reported annually to child protective services agencies. The magnitude of the problem is actually greater than this number suggests because it is estimated that only about one-fifth of the actual cases are reported.

The number of reported cases of abuse and neglect has been rising steadily in the last several years but it is uncertain whether the increasing trend reflects an actual increase in the number of children being mistreated or simply an increase in the number of people willing to report.

Unfortunately, the incidence of child mistreatment seems to be growing.

Child abuse, contrary to popular belief, occurs in all cultural, ethnic, occupational and socio-economic groups. There is a proportionately higher incidence of abuse reported in minority and low income families, but it is also true these families have more contact with agencies who have legal reporting responsibilities (welfare, public health clinics).

In addition, the stress factors in these families are higher.

The number of child abusers who are psychotic or psychopathic is small. Studies indicate a variety of factors are associated with child abuse, many of which apply to and characterize the general population.

Frequently abusing parents themselves experienced deficient childhoods. Consequently, these parents use on their children the same destructive techniques that their parents practiced on them. Without intervention, these patterns are transmitted for generations.

Abusing parents often reverse roles with their children which means these parents expect and demand love and care for their offspring, but have difficulty in providing the emotional necessities for their children. These parents are either suffering from their own childhoods, or are simply lacking in understanding of the needs and capabilities of children.

Abusing parents and caretakers are often experiencing deep marital or emotional conflicts. They have been described as frequently being immature, incompetent, anxious, depressed, untrusting, unreliable, hostile and volatile. The abuse of alcohol and drugs is common. Poor self-image and lack of self-confidence describes the majority of child abusers.

Recent studies have shown that a mother who has little or no contact with her infant immediately after birth is more likely to abuse or neglect that child. Therefore, children born prematurely, sickly, or by caesarian section run a greater risk of being mistreated as the early bonding between mother and child is disturbed by prolonged separation due to either the child's or mother's hospitalization. Also a child born with defects or disfigurements is often singled out for emotional or physical abuse.

Child abuse has also been related to the decline of the extended family. An extended family is best described as a situation in which a sizable number of immediate relatives reside in the same household or in proximity and are readily available in times of need.

In the nuclear family, generally consisting of mother, father and child, there are fewer sympathetic ears listening to one's frustration and fewer potential babysitters or persons assisting the mother with childbearing.

Mobility and the degree of transience in the nuclear family also means parents have fewer close friends upon whom to depend. Abusing families have a tendency towards social and emotional isolation.

Child abuse is seldom the result of any single factor. Rather, it is a combination of circumstances, as well as personality types, which precipitate acts of child abuse.

When a parent or caretaker is under emotional or environmental stress such as marital problems or joblessness; when he or she has a pre-disposition towards mistreatment, perhaps as a mistreated child, or one who believes in corporal punishment; when the child happens to trigger his or her contempt or resentment; and when the parent or caretaker has no other outlet for tension, anger, or aggression, abuse usually occurs.

Library Programs Open

Programs at two area libraries will open from February 4 through March 11.

On February 4, the Spring Valley Library will present a series of story hours for children.

Pat Law, library staff member, will present a series of stories and finger plays beginning at 10 a.m.

February 9 the Children department of the Casa de Oro Library will conduct a Valentine Craft Program. The materials will be provided.

Three films will be shown at the Casa de Oro Library on March 9. The three will be "Make Way for Ducklings", a picture book classic by Robert McCloskey; "Lend a Paw", a Walt Disney hit; and "Madeline and the Gypsy".

The Casa de Oro library is located 9628 Campo rd., Spring Valley.

On March 11, the Spring Valley Library, 1043 Elkton blvd., will show three preschool films, "Curious George", "Curious Mouse", and "Dragon Stew".

UCSD Class Promises Hot Tips on Insurance

A one evening short conference designed to give tips on insurance planning will be held 6:30-10 p.m. February 23 in Room 1438, Humanities Library Bldg., Revelle Campus UCSD.

The conference is sponsored by UCSD Extension and the topics to be covered include insurance terminology, types of protection, tax deferred annuity, insurance evaluation, and the role of insurance in estate planning.

Enrollment is suggested by February 16. Call UCSD Extension at 452-3400 to make arrangements.

Stage Job Opens

The Genesis Theater dedicated to touring quality drama through the East County seeks a new Artistic Director.

Applications are available by sending a self-addressed, stamped envelope to the theatre at 4690 Palm ave., La Mesa, Ca. 92041. Deadline is February 16.

HONORED BY KIWANIS — Mrs. Estelia Kramer, Lemon Grove, was presented with a plaque by the L.G. Kiwanis Club January 26 for her participation in the apprehension of three burglars December 9. She is flanked by Kiwanis President Dr. Robert Knauer, left, and Detective Sergeant Roger Jacobs, coordinator of the Lemon Grove Neighborhood Watch. Mrs. Kramer was commended by the Kiwanians for phoning police as part of the Neighborhood Watch. She saved her neighbors from a burglary.

Two on Dean's List

Two students from Spring Valley, Thomas A. Deise and David L. Rower, were named on the 1976 fall semester Dean's List at Northern Arizona University.

1400 students were included on the list which consists of pupils with at least a 3.499 grade point average on a 4.0 scale.

Fair Exhibitors Early Call Lists $170,000 Prizes

"It's not too early to think about exhibiting at the S. Cal. Exposition at Del Mar," Rene Bohn, entry supervisor, noted this week. Exhibition dates are June 21 through July 4.

Rene, a veteran of 21 years as department head, said approximately $170,000 will be offered in premiums in 21 major divisions. These run the gamut from livestock to entomology, wildlife, and woodworking, she explained.

Premium lists will be available April 1 and persons desiring a copy should indicate their particular interest.

Most important dates to remember are the closing deadlines, Rene said.

Horse show entry forms will be due Monday, May 16. 4-H Club and FFA forms must be in the entry office on or before May 15. All other entry blanks are due in the entry office Wednesday, June 1.

Arts in All Media entries will be accepted May 26-27 when forms also will be accepted. In previous years the post office postmark was sufficient to fulfill the deadline requirement, however, this greatly slowed up the processing of more than 50,000 entries from approximately 10,000 exhibitors in all divisions of competition.

The Exposition phone is 297-0338 or 755-1161.

This Week's RECIPE

Carrot Stew

By Susanne Williams

If California farmers had their druthers, it would be raining til Easter bunny makes it rounds again. Thus, it might pay off to be prepared for a few cold and rainy days and concoct a stew which our freezing brethren and sisters in the Midwest might consider the only remedy against chilled bones. But even with rising temperatures, this carrot stew might turn out to be a true "manhandler".

- 2 pounds of carrots
- 2 pounds of potatoes
- 1 stalk celery
- 1 onion
- 1 Polish sausage
- 4 bay leaves
- salt and pepper

thyme, nutmeg and cloves
Chop potatoes, carrots, celery and sausage into small cubes. Sauté chopped onion in butter until tender. Add cubed potatoes, celery, carrots and sausage and add water until mixture is covered. Bring mixture to a boil, then add spices to taste and let mixture simmer for at least 2 hours. Stir occasionally and add water till mixture has right stew consistency. Remove bay leaves before serving.

P.S. There are two secrets which make this dish irresistible to hearty eaters: cook the mixture as long as you can stand — it will help the vegetables and spices to blend together — or reheat the next day. Connoisseurs know that repeated or long heating will do wonder to any stew! Serves four.

Oral Cancer Examinations Will Be Free This Sat. In Fashion Valley

A day-long oral screening for the public will be held on February 5, at the Fashion Valley Shopping Center.

The six-hour program has been scheduled from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

The session, the first to be held in the City of San Diego, has been arranged by the San Diego County Dental Society in cooperation with the San Diego County Unit of the American Cancer Society.

Dentists and oral surgeons will examine any person 18 years and over. Volunteers from the San Diego Dental Hygiene Component and the San Diego County Dental Auxiliary will assist.

Dr. Gary A. Olen, D.D.S., Chairman of National Dental Health Week, pointed out that warning signals of oral cancer consist of a swelling, lump or growth anywhere in or about the mouth; white scaly patches inside the mouth; any sore that does not heal; numbness or pain anywhere in the mouth area and repeated bleeding in the mouth without cause.

Mouth cancer, including cancer of the pharynx will be diagnosed in about 24,000 persons and it will cause approximately 8,000 deaths in this country this year.

Bikers Threaten Suit Over Bikeway Hazards

The San Diego Wheelmen, an adult bicycle touring group with 130 members, put the city on notice by filing a claim against the City of San Diego to protest the hazardous condition of the bikeway on Friar's road in Fashion Valley.

Club president, Suzanne Bond, claiming that most bicycle paths in the city and county are so dangerous club members avoid them, said that there is no existing bicycle path in San Diego County which meets the minimum standards of safety are required by the State Dept. of Transportation. Further, she said that the bike lane on Friar's Road is illegal as well as hazardous. It fails to meet the mandatory minimum safety design criteria set down in the Caltrans Bikeway Manual of August 1976 for use in the development, planning and construction of bikeways in California.

Filed in Bond's name, the Wheelmen's claim requests $1 and removal of the bikeway or an upgrading of the Friar's rd. path to meet Caltrans mandatory minimum safety standards. Such criteria require "an 8 ft. paved section within a 14 ft. graded area" for the two-way traffic for which the Friar's Road path was designed.

The "minimum lateral clearance to obstructions from the edge of pavement of a bike path is 3 ft." On Friar's Road, the path is set between two curbs set 8 ft. apart without the 3' safety zones.

Bond says it collects debris, broken glass and sand; has insufficient maneuvering room for the two-way bicycle traffic, and makes no provision for joggers, pedestrians and is hazardous to the motorist.

Toreros Face Hawaii In Rubber Match Sat.

Last week the University of San Diego Toreros and the University of Hawaii Rainbow Warriors split a pair of high scoring contests in Hawaii. The rubber match of the series will be held in the USD Sports Center Gymnasium on Saturday night at 8. The game will be aired on Hawaiian television.

USD's next game is at home on Tuesday night against Chapman College. In the first third of the season USD was 8-1. In the second third USD was only 3-6, but eight of the 9 games were in the road. The final third of this year finds USD at home 7 of 9 times, where the Toreros are 6-1 for the year.

Five games ago USD coach Jim Brovelli had Rick Michle more start a ball game for the first time this year. Since that time the Toreros have won 3 of the 5 and are starting to play as well as they did during the season opening 8 game winning streak.

Wimbledon Net Champ Arthur Ashe In $100,000 La Costa Classic

Arthur Ashe, former Wimbledon champion and the world's top ranked player in 1975, will headline a 64-man draw in the $100,000 La Costa International Tennis Classic March 21-27.

The announcement was made by Don Hamilton, tournament director, who said that La Costa would use two side courts as well as its stadium court to handle the large field for the week-long event.

"Ashe anchors what I believe is going to be the finest field ever assembled in the five years La Costa has hosted a major men's event," Hamilton said. "The tournament is part of the Colgate Grand Prix and has the highest possible rating by the ATP (Association of Tennis Professionals)."

Ashe, who won Wimbledon in 1975 defeating Connors and topped that brilliant year with the WCT championship and a total $326,750 in earnings, will be making his first competitive San Diego County appearance.

He gained world-wide recognition by winning the first Forest Hills National Open in 1968 but his Davis Cup record, representing the United States in international competition, has made him a tremendous favorite of the fans.

He has represented the U. S.

10 times in Davis Cup play, delivering a 28-4 record and recently paced the team's win over Mexico.

"With 64 players, competition will be spread more evenly throughout the tournament schedule," Hamilton said. "There will be greater spectator interest beyond just the finals and semi-finals. The draw will produce tough matches all week long."

Another departure from previous tournaments will be in the scheduling of celebrity matches. Previously, celebrities were scheduled on the weekend. Hamilton plans to have such entertainment provided during the week.

"Some people enjoy watching the celebrities, others don't," he said. "What we're going to try to do this year is space out celebrity appearance, starting with our very first day."

Celebrities invited include Bert Bacharach, Lloyd Bridges, Merv Griffin, Clint Eastwood and Gabe (Kotter) Kaplan.

What Hamilton and La Costa can't do anything about is seating capacity at the stadium court. The 5400 seats are arranged to allow a perfect, close-up view from each location. But there's little room for expansion and this was a consideration for last year's finals which were sold out five days in advance.

This year's finals will be held Sunday (previous years there was a Saturday conclusion) with both semi final matches played on Saturday. Both days will be televised by Public Broadcasting System. Quarter final matches will be Friday afternoon and evening.

There will be no increase in ticket prices. Reserved seats Monday through Thursday are $4 and $6 and $8 and $3 for Friday, Saturday and Sunday. Box seats are $12 and $15. Matches will begin at 11 a.m. and at 7 p.m. Monday through Friday with a noon start Saturday and Sunday. Each day's schedule will include both singles and doubles competition.

Tickets may be purchased at La Costa and by mail; write La Costa Tennis Classic, Costa Del Mar road, Carlsbad 92008.

Dave Campbell

Manager's Post Given Campbell

Former major leaguer Dave Campbell has been named as the new field manager of the Padres Amarillo farm club of the Class AA Texas League by Padres President Buzzie Bavasi.

Campbell, 35, will succeed Bob Miller who resigned following the 1977 season to accept the position of pitching coach with the expansion Toronto Blue Jays of the American League. Under Miller last season the Gold Sox won the Texas League championship.

Primarily a second baseman during his playing career, Campbell had eight seasons in the majors with the Detroit Tigers, San Diego Padres, St. Louis Cardinals and Houston Astros from 1968-1974. He posted a lifetime average of .213 with his bests coming in 1970 and 1971 when he hit .219 and .227, respectively.

He began his professional career in 1964 in the Detroit Tigers organization, splitting his first season between Lakeland of the Florida State League and Knoxville of the South Atlantic League. He appeared briefly with the Tigers in the majors at the end of the 1968 and 1969 campaigns and made it to stay in 1970 with the Padres.

While with the Padres from 1970-73, he was one of the club's top performers and he still ranks in the top ten in several offensive career categories for San Diego including stolen bases where he rates fifth.

A 1964 graduate of the University of Michigan with a B.S. degree in education, he was a standout on the Wolverine club in 1964 as he was All-Big Ten and team captain. Additionally, he played on the 1962 Michigan club which won the NCAA College World Series.

He has just completed a stint as a sports reporter for KSDO radio in San Diego.

TAKE FIVE

By John E. Wirges

You really have to love the game or be a little bit nuts to get up in pre-dawn hours, struggle into your tee togs and line up for a starting time before 'ol Sol peaks his head over the Cajon Mountains.

While more than half the country is freezin' under blankets of snow and shiverin' in arctic like temperatures, a gang of folks who are determined to enjoy every minute of their fun-in-the-sun no matter what, queued up in sleeping bags in front of the starters office on Monday last at Torrey Pines.

"I don't know what the attraction is," laughed Barney Barnes, director of golf interests on San Diego city courses. "I guess they just wanted to be the first on the course after the pros played in the Andy Williams San Diego Open."

"We had to wake a couple of them to get in," nodded starter Bob Simpson. "We normally open at 6:30, but we got here a little early on Monday because of the qualifying."

More than 100 non-exempt professional golfers tried for the approximately 30 openings available in the Hawaiian Open in the early going on the North course Monday.

The big attraction, however, seems to be in the other direction. "Everybody wants to play the south course," grins starter Ed Regua.

"Even if they have to spend the night sleeping on hard ground snuggling up to their golf clubs," laughed Simpson.

And it just wasn't one or two guys, either. Six gentlemen of golf intent staked claim in sleeping bags for head of the line privilege at Torrey, but that six grew to a multitude by the time Barney's boys opened for business.

"We started Monday morning with a two and a half hour wait," claimed Barney. "By 9 o'clock we still had takers with a four hour delay."

Let history record the first foursome to tee off was listed under the name of Polley. He spent the night for the honor.

And who is to say he is wrong? As the sunless folks in Buffalo will attest, any or all would gladly trade places with anyone who has the option of turning in on snowless ground to play golf under warm skies at the birth of a new day.

Playing golf is a way of life in San Diego. It's only a dream in distant memory to those living in the miserable reality of ice and cold driven by blizzard winds.

And, more to the point, playing golf is the means to a worth while end for well meaning gatherings in our town. It's a living for some, but an assist to an education for others.

The San Diego Sportswriters/Sportscasters Association plans such an outing this Saturday. And you are welcome to join them.

It's the second annual Sportswriters/Sportscasters Golf Tournament to benefit the SSA's scholarship fund. Each year the SSA grants financial assistances to hard working youngsters committed to study and hard knocks in the school of journalism.

What more natural way to raise money for such a venture here in San Diego than hold a sports' celebrity golf shindig.

So, through the hard work of John DeMott and Ron Reina, golf, carts and steak dinners are on tap for anyone getting in under the gun for golf and fun at Whispering Palms Saturday morning. Total cost is $30 per player and the doings are limited to 18 foursomes.

Make up your own or get paired up on the hoof. Bring your friends or come alone. You won't be a stranger. A host of Padre players and Chargers stars will mix in your easy company.

You'll play to a noon shotgun start with dinner, awards and conversation scheduled for 6:30 p.m.

Think of how fast this clambake would sell out if the folks in Buffalo had a chance to join in on the fun. And you don't even have to queue up in a sleeping bag to get a starting time. Why don't you call Be Barnes at the Padre's office (233-4494) and join the gang?

IVA Reorganization Strengthens League

The International Volleyball Assn., which began playing in 1975 with five clubs, has seven franchises for 1977, plus a major business reorganizational structure, it was announced.

James L. Bartlett III, Chairman of the Board of Directors of the IVA, has made a substantial financial commitment to insure the continuity of the sport's only professional league, it was said.

"We are building an executive management team at the league level," Bartlett said. We also have strengthened ourselves greatly at the club level with new ownership of two franchises."

One addition Nick Curran was named Vice President of Public Relations. Curran has 7 years experience as Director of Public Relations for NBA in New York City. Prior to that, he has 13 years experience as a newspaper reporter and editor.

Chuck Nelson, who has been a key IVA executive since its inception, is now vice president of Volleyball operations, responsible for officiating, scheduling and business affairs.

Run As Business

"The IVA is being reorganized as a business first and a sports league second. Our owners can see that if we can't

Little Leaguers To Register at Monterey Heights

Lemon Grove Little League will hold registration for the 1977 season Saturday and Sunday at the Little League Field adjacent to Monterey Heights School. Sign-ups will be accepted Saturday from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m., and on Sunday from 12 noon until 3 p.m.

Boys and girls, ages 8-12, who will be 8, but no older than 12, on or before July 31, 1977, are eligible to participate in the Little League program.

Youngsters registering for the baseball program must be accompanied by a parent or legal guardian and should have proof of birth.

For those unable to register this week-end, sign-ups will be accepted during tryout February 12 and 13, and again February 19-20.

Ginny Baker is Player Agent at 466-0756.

Rick Smith Named Charger PR Exec

Eric A. (Rick) Smith, 37, was named director of public relations for the San Diego Chargers replacing Jerry Wynn who retired last week.

Smith attended schools in San Diego and was a sportswriter for the San Diego Evening Tribune from 1960-72. He was director of public relations for the Golden State Warriors of the National Basketball Association from October, 1972 to July 1974, as an associate editor of PRO! the Los Angeles based magazine of the NFL.

Breakers Coach Buys Orange Stars

The San Diego Breakers will have a new volleyball player-coach this season.

Dodge Parker, who held that post as the season ended last year, has been released from his contract with the league champion Breakers so that he could purchase and play for the newly-formed Orange County Stars. The Stars were formerly the Los Angeles Stars. Parker was named International Volleyball Assn. most valuable in 1976.

Dan de Tour, general manager of the Breakers said that a replacement for Parker would be named shortly. He said the players to be named are "nothing less than sensational."

Friars Film Available

The San Diego Friars are making available a 28-minute World Team Tennis film featuring last year's All-Star match and hi-lights from the 1976 WIT season. San Diego's Rod Laver, Chris Evert, Evonne Goolagong, Billie Jean King and Vitas Gerulaitis are featured. The film may be reserved at no charge by calling the Friars' office, 298-9855.

Alamitos Nears Close

LOS ALAMITOS — The super stars of the speed sport will be out for the $50,000 Championship to highlight the last big weekend of the winter meeting at Los Alamitos Saturday night.

The 59-date Horsemens Quarter Horse Racing Assn. winter meeting concludes at the Orange County track February 10. Post time for the first race $2 exacta every evening is 7:45 p.m. with a special dollar-night scheduled for next Tuesday as a bonus for quarter horse fans.

All grandstand admissions Tuesday will be just $1 including the tax as HQRHA says thanks for fan support throughout the meeting.

Ski Medical Seminar Scheduled at Mammoth

About 100 physicians will study athletic competition and the prevention and care of sports injuries at the Mammoth Conference on Sports Medicine February 9-11 at the Mammoth Ski area.

The conference is sponsored by the Calif. Medical Assn. and will focus attention on the middle-aged athlete.

Hal Connolly, himself a middle-aged athlete and former U.S. Olympic Gold Medalist (Hammer throw, 1956), is on the conference faculty.

The seminar is one in an annual series of postgraduate educational institutes cosponsored by the UCLA School of Medicine and the Medical Society and Medical Education Foundation of Santa Barbara County.

Mayon Rematched With Onate In Friday Card at the Coliseum

A Lemon Grove heavy-weight, Gary Gahn, will have another try at his climb to fame and fortune in the boxing ring Friday night at the San Diego Coliseum.

He will meet David Wynne, of Mira Mesa, who beat him the last time out. Gahn was leading all the way — until he became careless. He was decked by Wynne.

The headline scrap is also a replay. Miguel "Mie" Mayon defeated Basilio "Chilo" Onate in a hard fought lightweight 10-rounder during the recent holidays at the Coliseum. Each battler claimed the victory. But Mayon had the referee on his side. Mayon said he took his opponent too lightly. "I thought I could win in a walk. He fooled me. I won't take chances Friday night."

Onate said, "Now I know I can take him. My trainer made a couple of adjustments in my style. He won't lay a glove on me Friday."

Their last battle was action-filled, Mayon once carried the tag of "The Buzzsaw". He filled that description well in his fight with Onate.

In a junior lightweight 6-rounder Santiago Meza meets Miguel Ruiz of Tijuana. Both boys have shown good promise in previous appearances, according to promoter Danny Millsap.

In a four rounder, the pride of the Mountain Empire, Bert Lee, a junior middleweight will meet an opponent yet to be signed, according to Millsap.

The battle starts at 8 p.m. with seats ranging from $5, $4 and $2.50. Juniors, seniors and military enjoy a dollar discount on reserved seats.

It'll Be Free Jacket Night

The Mariners go on tour again with a decimated gang. They play in Winnipeg Friday, Edmonton on Sunday and Tuesday, and Phoenix on Friday.

Mariners coach Ron Ingraham told members of the Sportsclub / Sportswriters Assn. Tuesday, "In all of my hockey experience I have never seen so many injuries. Five shoulder separations among three players in a month. Normally, there might be one—even two in a season. But there has never been anything like this. I have been spending more time at General Hospital than at the Arena."

But the team comes home Sunday, February 15 for a game with the Roadrunners and a promotion that is sure to warm the hearts of parents and the bobs of young hockey fans. The first 4,000 youngsters 14 and under, will get a Mariners/McDonalds jacket.

That contest starts at 7:30 with tickets available at Select-A-Seat locations, and, of course, the Mariners box office.

An added attraction pits the KGB Chicken against Ronald McDonald in a puck shooting contest.

Dwight Stones Aims for 7-7 In JiB Indoor Games Feb. 18

The last time Dwight Stones visited San Diego, he set a world record indoor high jump mark of 7'6 1/2".

That was during the Jack in the Box Indoor Games last year. And the unabashed athlete is hoping for a repeat performance in the 1977 meet, set for Friday night, February 18, at the San Diego Sports Arena.

The world record holder outdoors, too, at 7'7 1/2", Stones is the king of the high jumpers, the world's best in the event as designated by Track and Field News for four consecutive years.

The only blemish on his career so far was his failure to win the Olympic gold medal during the Montreal Games, a dream that went down the drain in the Montreal rain.

The undaunted Stones, though, left Montreal determined to show everyone he was still the best, which he did by making his world record jump in a post-Olympic meet in Philadelphia.

The tall, lanky athlete is pointing to a 7-8 jump in '77, and says his training schedule for the indoor season has him prepared to better the effort by San Diego.

High school cross country star, Crawford's Tim Varley, the slender red-head who led the Colts to the City's Eastern League title, has accepted an invitation to run in the two-mile for preps in the JIB meet.

Padres Leave College Work Now in Stadium

The Padres have changed their workout residence.

They moved from Grossmont College to the S.D. Stadium where the pitcher will toil against batters who want to practice, until the spring training season starts in Yuma March 10.

Coach Roger Craig has warned players to be in shape for spring camp on opening day because he plans a two-mile run for the entire squad.

This week Craig will take a group to Phoenix for a two-day (Saturday and Sunday) baseball clinic. Randy Jones and Brent Strom have signed to go.

In other than baseball matters, a Padre pair took part in a weekend in the American Airlines baseball-football golf tournament in Scottsdale. Relief specialist Rollie Fingers teamed up with Houston quarterback Dan Pastorini to tie for 5th place with 185 while Randy Jones joined up with Charger signalcaller Dan Fouts but finished out of the top 20.

Collectors Meet Over Matchbooks

The San Diego Match Cover Club will meet 1 p.m. February 13 at the Cracker factory, 448 W. Market st.

with the open division where Olympic champions and world record holders will match talents. Already accepting bids have been Olympic champs Arnie Robinson, Mac Wilkins and Don Quarrie in addition to indoor pole vault record holder Dan Ripley.

Varley's major competition should come from Granite Hills' Pat Carroll, who sped to a 9:20 outdoors last season and finished second in the CIF cross-country championships.

Others in the field include Coronado's Rick Satterlee and Carlsbad's Joe Stimpson, both at 9:40, Castle Park's Tim Penwell and Mt. Miguel's Rusty Sportsman.

Leaders Grow Stronger in L.G. Rec. Play

The Meanies, the Langstrons, and the Spiders all have one thing in common. Each leads the league in which they play softball within the framework of the L.G. Rec. League.

Here is the way the various clubs stand as week began:

Co-Ed
Blue Meanies	5-1
Piggies Wiggies	4-1
Guys, Dolls	2-4

S.D. Sharks Move Into First Place

The S.D. Sharks took over first place in the Pacific Southwest Hockey League over the weekend. With two wins over the defending champion Fresno Falcons the Sharks have a 9-3 record good for 20 points. The L.A. Bruins with a victory over West Covina hold down second spot with a (9-3-1) 19 point record. Fresno remains in third with 4 wins, 8 losses.

Willie O'Ree reached the top spot in the league scoring race, Willie had 2 goals, 3 assists in the 6-5 Saturday win and 1 goal, 1 assist in the 6-3 Sunday victory. O'Ree now has 13 goals, 21 assists for 34 points. Linemate Brian Morenz is in second with 16 goals, 16 assists for 32 points. The Bruins return here for a game Sunday.

Champ Larrieu to Run

Francie Larrieu, one of the nation's feminine track greats, will headline the field for the mile run at the annual JIB Indoor Games it was announced.

Francie is very prolific on the world indoor record books, holding world marks at 1000 meters, 1500 meters, one mile, 3000 meters and two miles.

The slender Pacific Coast Club athlete has set two of her world indoor marks on the super-fast San Diego Sports Arena boards.

The two-time Olympian has been enjoying one of her best seasons, having been undefeated over strong competition to date on the indoor circuit.

Boating Skills Class Hosted by Coast Guard

Coast Guard Auxiliary Flotilla 11 will present a 12 lesson course on boating skills and seamanship starting February 7, at the County Emergency Services Building, 7939 John Tower ave., Gillespie Field, Santee.

The course will cover such subjects as legal requirements, marlinpike seamanship, rules of the road, anchoring and maneuvering, radio telephone, charts and the compass, and weather.

Students who pass the course will be presented a certificate of completion.

Registration is at the first meeting at 7:30 p.m. February 7. To register call 443-7352, 463-8722, or 449-2857.

Heights Little League Asks LG School Board: Let us Dig

The Monterey Heights Little League has asked the Lemon Grove School Board for approval of improvements the league wants to make at the field on Glencoe dr.

Floyd Hardcastle, of the Little League, presented to the L.G. Board January 25 five proposals his organization developed for about a half acre of land owned by the Lemon Grove School District adjacent to the baseball field.

"What we propose is five choices," said Hardcastle, "One, you can sell us the property; two, you can lease us the property; three, you can allow us to excavate your property down to the same level as our baseball field; four, you can grant us parking privileges on your land; or five, none of the above."

The Little League is currently filling the canyon behind the Monterey Heights School with the help of Navy Seabees.

The League wants the Board to allow them to lower the School District's property about nine feet.

Water is Topic Of Lecture Series

The Behavioral Sciences Department at Southwestern College is offering a free lecture series on topics of general interest to members of the community.

The first lecture in the series will be a discussion of water problems in S. Cal by Gene Coleman, member of the College faculty. The lecture is scheduled for 7:30 p.m., room 301 on Friday.

Coleman is a member of the Cal. Council for Geographic Education and a member of the Assn. of Pacific Geographers. He is on the Chula Vista Environmental Control Commission and has been on the Southwestern faculty since 1971. He received both his Bachelor's and Master's Degrees at SDSU.

The lecture will cover water resources of California, past, present and future, with particular emphasis on S. Cal.

The officers maintained completed radio silence in making the raid and arrested Hammett when he returned to the home. The scanners were operating in the house to the extent, "none of us had to use our own radios. We could listen to his and monitor everything going on in the county," Henderson said. J.Mc.

300,000 ELP's Made

Environmental License Plates (ELP) contribute to a variety of State-funded environmental programs; ELPs are motor vehicle owners' personalized license plates. The 300,000th plate will be issued this week to a woman who bought it for her parents with the inscription "4MA4PA".

ELPs, or Environmental License Plates, cost a one-time $25 application fee, a yearly $10 renewal and normal registration charges. Plate designs are limited to six letter or letter and number combinations. Duplicates and offensive messages are screened out by the Department of Motor Vehicles.

Danish Gymnasts Dance In Native Display

Grossmont Community College District's Office of Community Education will present Rosager's Gymnastics Team in a program of gymnastics and folk dancing at 8 p.m., Saturday, February 5, in the Grossmont College gymnasium.

On a United States tour, this group of twenty-nine young men and women will perform rhythmic, fundamental, jazz and classical gymnastics as well as Danish folk dances in their native costumes.

The public is invited to an evening of gymnastics performed by this group of young Danish men and women. The price of admission is $1.

UCSD Class Held On Masculinity

The author of a book on hazards of being male will conduct a one day workshop Saturday February 12 in Room 104, Third Lecture Hall, Third College Campus, UCSD. Dr. Herb Goldberg, author of "The Hazards of Being Male", will present a program entitled "Surviving the Myth of Masculine Privilege".

The program begins at 9 a.m. and the fee through UCSD Extension is $20. To register call UCSD Extension, 452-3400.

Date Correction

The date for the San Diego State University solo and Ensemble Festival will be Saturday February 19 from 8 to Noon. Last week the date for the festival was incorrectly reported.

Competing in the festival will be member of the Lemon Grove Junior High School band.

Red Measles Outbreak Here Not Indicated

Widespread outbreaks of red measles, such as those being reported in the Los Angeles area, are not occurring in San Diego county, Dr. John Philp, San Diego County Director of Public Health said.

Only 17 cases of the disease have been reported among San Diego county residents in the past three and one-half months, compared with several hundred in the Los Angeles area. The small number of cases reported locally is not unusual for the time period.

"It is always possible that small, localized outbreaks will occur," said Dr. Philp, "but a State Department of Health survey indicates that 93 per cent of the county's children entering school last fall were protected, either as a result of being immunized or having had the disease."

Dr. Myron Fessler, associated with the Lemon Grove Medical Group, said there was no indication of a red measles outbreak in the Lemon Grove-Spring Valley area.

He said that two cases were listed at week's end. He said that is normal for this period of the year.

Dr. Philp said the high immunization rate is the result of efforts by physicians in private practice, community clinics and Health Department immunization clinics.

Many children, he said, have also been protected through a federally funded immunization project which was begun last spring in schools where immunization levels were low. The youngsters were immunized by teams of county health department personnel.

"Red measles is also known as rubella," Dr. Philp explained, "and should not be confused with the German measles or rubella."

Arts Gallery Features U of Mass. Prof Tonight

The San Diego Fine Arts Gallery has several activities planned for this month.

Today, February 3 at 6 p.m., Professor Walter B. Denny, Associate Professor of Art History at the University of Massachusetts and one of the most noted Islamicists and Turkish experts in the U. S., will lecture on "Three Turkish Capital Cities: Bursa, Edrine, and Istanbul."

The lecture will be in the James S. Copley Auditorium at the Fine Arts Gallery in Balboa Park.

The free wine and cheese reception for the Professor will be on half hour before the lecture at 5:30 p.m.

Second Floor Closed
The second floor of the gallery will be closed for renovation beginning February 8.

Open Now
Currently featured at the Gallery is an exhibition of the architectural designs from 1909 to the 1940's.

The Gallery is open Tuesday through Sunday 10 a.m. - 5 p.m.

National public health officials recommend that youngsters be immunized against red measles at 15 months of age. Until just a few months ago, it had been standard practice to immunize children at 12 months of age. However, a review by the American Academy of Pediatrics, of studies concerning children immunized at 12 months of age showed that only 80 to 85 per cent developed sufficient immunity while more than 95 per cent of those immunized at 15 months were adequately protected.

Only when an outbreak occurs, such as in Los Angeles, should children be immunized at a younger age, according to the Academy, and then they must be reimmunized at 15 months to insure adequate protection.

"We will continue our efforts to maintain a high immunization level in this county," Dr. Philp said. "Persons wishing to have their youngsters immunized should see their family physician, visit a community clinic or attend a public health immunization clinic."

Dr. Philp said the high immunization rate is the result of efforts by physicians in private practice, community clinics and Health Department immunization clinics.

Many children, he said, have also been protected through a federally funded immunization project which was begun last spring in schools where immunization levels were low. The youngsters were immunized by teams of county health department personnel.

Adventist Church Gospel Artists, Kids' Bible Club

The Heritage Singers will present a sacred concert tonight at 7:30 p.m. at the La Mesa Seventh-day Adventist Church which is located at 4207 Spring st. There will be no admission charge and the public is invited.

This popular group of young gospel recording artists, under the direction of Max Mace, has toured extensively in the U.S. and Canada. They have recorded with Chapel and Bridge Records and have recently become associated with Tempo Records of Kansas City. Tempo is a company which distributes solely Christian music, records and tapes nationwide.

The church will launch another in its series of Neighborhood Bible Clubs on Saturday at 4 p.m. According to the coordinator Mrs. Betty U'Ren, "This is an hour of songs, stories and other related activities for children from the ages of 4 thru 12 which will further familiarize them with their Bibles."

All interested youngsters are invited to attend this free Neighborhood Bible Club, which will meet every Saturday afternoon for thirteen weeks. The Adventist Church is at 4207 Spring st. in La Mesa.

Construction Grows

Construction rebounded substantially in San Diego County in December according to a building permit summary of activity in the unincorporated areas of the County.

In December, immediate past, permits were acquired for 1,045 dwelling units valued at $37,800,990. The year before the total was 316 permits valued at $13,413,940.

All permits, including commercial as well as dwellings were 18,403 permits compared with 12,633 the previous year, and $376,161,100 in value compared to $219,184,100.

Big Sur Poet Will Appear This Friday

Ric Masten, Big Sur poet, songwriter and folk singer, will make his fourth appearance at Grossmont College at 11 a.m. and 8 p.m., Friday, February 4 in the Fine Arts Recital Hall in a program presented by Grossmont College Districts Office of Community Education.

Masten writes poems which he sometimes reads and other times sings to his music. The lyrics tell of his experiences, his friends and life.

The public is invited to hear this modern troubadour perform. There is no charge for admission.

Stull Says Tax $ Went to Prop 14

Senator John Stull (R-38th District) has asked the Federal Elections Commission to investigate the use of Jimmy Carter's presidential election campaign funds in the "Yes on 14" effort.

"Considering that presidential election funds are in effect one half public dollars under the partial public financing of presidential campaign law enacted by the Congress," Stull said, "it is singularly inappropriate for the Carter Campaign Committee to have donated $1,000 to the Cesar Chavez initiative campaign."

"If it is not illegal to divert presidential campaign funds to such purposes now, it should be," he said.

"I have asked the federal commission only to look into this matter, but also to sponsor remedial legislation if this practice is not already prohibited."

"When taxpayers checked off their $1 donations for presidential elections, I am sure they did not believe that such funds would be used for statewide initiative measures."

Helix Waterworks Offers Acreage

The Helix Board has authorized the sale of 6.8 acres of land on the North slope of Dictionary Hill, South of Ivy st. in Spring Valley. The property consists of 48-50' x 120' lots in East San Diego Villa Heights Subdivision and were acquired a number of years ago through tax deeds.

This subdivision, recorded in 1911, originally consisted of 2568 lots laid out in a rectangular pattern without regard to topography. The Southerly slopes have been developed and most of the Northerly slopes around the Helix land are to be included in the proposed Dictionary Hill Estates subdivision.

The property, declared surplus to Helix needs, will be sold at public auction on February 9th at 10 a.m. at its Board room at 8111 University ave., La Mesa.

PARADE MARSHAL — The KGB Chicken will be the parade marshal April 9 for Lemon Grove's annual Old Time Days Parade. Flanking the chicken in the parade marshal's car will be Erin McLaughlin, Miss Spring Valley 1976 and Mary Jo Byrne, Miss Lemon Grove.

It's New For 1976 Tax Returns Tax Credit Gives A Choice

Individual taxpayers filing tax returns for 1976 will encounter major changes in the law resulting from recent passage of the Tax Reform Act of 1976.

One change in the law that affects virtually everyone filing a return, according to the Internal Revenue Service, is the General Tax Credit.

William H. Connitt, IRS District Director of Southern California, advised taxpayers to carefully read the instructions that come with the tax package.

"The tax forms themselves show you, step by step," said Connitt, "how to claim your General Tax Credit."

"This year taxpayers have to make a choice," added Connitt, "You can either claim $35 per person or take a credit of two per cent of your first $9,000 taxable income (up to $180), whichever gives you the larger credit."

According to Connitt, each taxpayer should figure the credit using both methods, then choose the larger figure.

For example, consider a married man with three children and a taxable income of $12,000. If he figures his credit at the rate of $35 for himself and each dependent, the total is $175.

If he used the other method of figuring the credit, taking two per cent of his $9,000 taxable income, the credit would total $180.

In this case, using the 2 per cent formula would result in a $5 advantage, and the taxpayer should claim the $180 figure as his General Tax Credit.

Connitt pointed out that families with six or more dependents would find the $35 per dependent computation to their advantage.

Although single people can figure the credit based on the choice of the most advantageous method, in most cases the two per cent formula would give a larger credit. A single person with a taxable income of $9,000 would be able to claim a credit of $180.

Married taxpayers filing separate returns may not claim more than $90 on their separate returns (two per cent of the first $4,500 of taxable income).

If one spouse chooses the two per cent formula, the other spouse must also do so.

In some cases this may result in a lesser credit than if a joint return is filed. In this case, the taxpayers must determine if it is more favorable to file jointly and use the two per cent formula or file separately and use the $35 per person option.

Last year many California taxpayers either didn't take the credit or figured the credit incorrectly. Either mistake will delay your refund, IRS officials emphasized.

Reservation System Changed for Parks

SACRAMENTO — Reservations for California's state parks and recreational areas will be limited to 60 days in advance the State Director of Parks and Recreation has announced.

Director Herbert Rhodes said the state's contract with Ticketron expired on Dec. 31 and a new contractor for reservations has been selected. The new contractor is Select-A-Seat.

"We've also changed our regulations so reservations can now be made no earlier than 60 days in advance," said Rhodes, "This means the system will be operating before the earliest date most Easter vacationists will need to apply."

"The earliest you can make a reservation for April 1," Rhodes continued, "will be January 31, and the system will be operating by then."

Rhodes said the 90 day advance reservations for many of the state's campgrounds have been honored in the past but Hearst Castle tours have already converted to the 60 day limit.

He added those with reservations through Ticketron will still maintain their spaces.

P.O. Furniture Goes Under Hammer

Desks, letter cases, miscellaneous furniture and equipment will be sold by the U.S. Postal Service to the public at a bid auction Tuesday and Wednesday from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.

The auction will be held in the San Diego Post Office basement at 821 8th ave. only. Bid cards will be supplied.

'Lion' Dates Set

Rehearsals are in progress for "The Lion in Winter" to be presented by the Community Theater, February 17, 18, 19, 24, 25 and 26 at 8 p.m. in the El Cajon Valley High School's Little Theater, 1035 Madison ave. The play is directed by Tom Morton.

Admission is $2 and tickets are available at the door or reserved by calling 463-3844.

Sups Ban County Use Of Aerosol Products

The San Diego County Board of Supervisors have agreed to ban the purchase and use of aerosol spray cans by the County unless the product is essential to a Department's operations.

The County's purchasing agent, William Burgeson, said the policy will save the County some $10,000 annually.

"A typical 20 ounce aerosol can has eight ounces of product and 12 ounces of propellant," said Burgeson. "The cost per ounce of products in pump dispensers is one fifth that of products sold in aerosol form."

Additionally the Board said savings was not the sole consideration and expressed concern for the atmosphere.

State Releases Bids On Highway Projects

SACRAMENTO — The California Department of Transportation has called for bids on several San Diego County highway construction projects. Work covered by the contracts includes irrigations for highway plantings, repaving, highway widening, new signs, passing lanes and guard railings.

Among the projects are:

—Resurfacing of Highways 76, 78, and 79 at various locations at an estimated cost of $271,000.

—Install guard railing along one mile of Route 15 between Rt. 94 and Rt. 805 at a cost of $52,000.

—Widen shoulders along 3.2 miles of Jamacha rd., (Rt. 54) in El Cajon to provide two bicycle lanes at an estimated cost of $15,000.

—Install crash cushions and remove fixed objects from gore areas at various locations on I-8 in San Diego and La Mesa. Estimated cost is $136,000.

—And remove fixed objects from gore areas at various locations on Routes 78, 94, 125, and 163 in Vista, La Mesa, and San Diego at an estimated cost of $98,000.

Buses Cut Routes, Add Express Stops

S.D. Transit Corporation has announced various bus route and policy changes which will go into effect next Sunday and Monday respectively.

Beginning then, express stops will be clearly identified by a red band reading "Express" over the regular bus stop signs; they will also be the only places at which Express buses will stop. Among the routes affected by this policy is Route 90, operating between downtown S.D. and Parkway Plaza via College Grove and Grossmont center.

The introduction of wheelchair lifts on Routes 3 and 7 constitutes another change; it is the first action in which buses equipped to accommodate wheelchair users will be placed in regular fixed route service in the U.S.

Public schedules of the route changes will be available on all S.D. Transit buses starting today. Bus users may also call 239-8161.

DMV Reminds Owners Watch Registration

SACRAMENTO — The California Department of Motor Vehicles has reminded automobile owners the late fee for registering vehicles is 50 per cent of the fee.

The average family car with a registration fee of $30, if the fee were late, would be assessed an additional $15.

On a $10,000 luxury vehicle the registration fee would be $152, the state would bill an additional $76 for late fees.

Motor Vehicles Director Herman Sillas cites this simple arithmetic to remind California automobile owners that while long first-of-the-year lines at the Department of Motor Vehicles are gone, so are grace periods and graduated penalty fee for late registration.

Under the DMV's year-round registration renewal deadlines occur on a staggered basis each month. Renewal notices are mailed approximately 30 days before a vehicle's registration expires.

"Whether a renewal notice is received or not, it is the owner's responsibility to renew a registration on time," said DMV Registrar Harold Hammonds, "An easy way to check the month is to look at the rear license plate."

ed the contract by which the local nutrition program came into being. He and his staff met with the superintendent of schools (Dr. Robert Sutton); he brought in people to explore the feasibility of the program; he set up an exploratory committee; provided consultants for the program's development; contracted with the school for the hot food to be served to seniors, and developed a contract for providing bus service for those who had no other transportation.

"It is not only a place where citizens can see their tax dollars at work but it is a good example of how services can be provided through contractual agreements," Thomson said. "I am probably the only candidate with human care and government administration experience. The nutrition program gives voters a measurement by which they can measure the accomplishments of a candidate. There will be many contracts for service let by the new city. My administrative background will help give guidance to the other four in approaching budgets and dealing with the employment of capable personnel. "Lemon Grove," Thomson said, "will be a small city and is destined to remain small. What it needs least is a bureaucracy. I have dealt with bureaucracy in my profession and know it grows — if permitted. I, for one, would resist such growth."

Thomson said that he has seen the benefits of acquiring services by contracts. "Contracts give legal recourse when services or material is substandard. The alternative is to maintain equipment for occasional use. Equipment requires personnel. Upkeep costs and payroll costs add to the tax bill. Hiring manned equipment as needed is far more economical."

"I would support a responsible paramedic program for the city. I would participate in establishing a citizen-council communication arrangement. I would urge contract arrangements for the training, service, supply and equipment needs of the city. I would encourage shared functions and shared facilities as a means of keeping the cost of government low."

Thomson's wife, Karen, is co-chairman of the Committee for Incorporation.

COUNCIL CANDIDATE — Clyde West, 59, a retired surveyor for the City of San Diego, lives at 7076 Casa Ln. with his wife Marjorie. Their three children are grown and gone. He retired in June.

He has lived in Lemon Grove 29 years in the house he built for his family. The children attended Lemon Grove schools.

A native San Diegan — his mother was born here, too — he attended St. Augustine High school and S.D. State where he was a three year geology major. He is a member of St. John of the Cross Catholic Church.

He is a rock hound and a photo bug — two matters which have occupied much of his time since his retirement.

"I didn't support other attempts at incorporation but I do now. We will be losing a lot of tax income unless we form a city to accept the county, state and federal handouts. Most of that money has been getting away from us now."

"I have 28 years experience in public works engineering. All cities have problems with traffic, drainage, street improvements and others, but as a new city all of these problems will be rested in the city council. It is more probable that these problems can be solved under a local body. "I am retired and if a taxpayer calls about a hole in the street or a malfunctioning traffic signal, I would have the time to go out and look at it."

"I know what it costs to put in a new fire hydrant, a new storm drain or for curbs and sidewalks. I wouldn't need on-the-job training on parks or public improvements."

"I like to talk to people and I'm a good listener. Many of the problems in government arise because the public gets the idea his complaint isn't being heard. "This community is missing out on large sums of matching funds money available to cities. One of my major interests would be to gather in some of that money for the betterment of our community and its people."

Schools, Health, Landlords Are Subjects of New Laws

Scores of new laws were signed by Gov. Brown and went into effect on January 1. The laws cover a great many subjects including schools, school personnel, health, welfare, landlords, taxes and courts.

The following is but a sampling of the huge total. Those listed are believed to be those with the most general interest.

Each bill is boiled down to its barest essence but full context may be obtained from your legislator. For the meaning of the law contact your lawyer, banker, accountant or doctor, depending on the field the law affects.

Material for this list was compiled for us by Assemblyman Peter Chacon.

AB 550 Chapter 427 — Permits prescription drug price advertising.

AB 1255 Ch. 958 — Appropriates $2 million for program to include dentures for Medi-Cal.

Taxes Returned To City, County

California's cities and counties received their monthly apportionment of highway users taxes, cigarette taxes and "in-lieu" motor vehicle fees from the State's Office of the Controller recently.

The tax money is distributed in proportion to use. Under this arrangement the city of Coronado for instance will be entitled to $16,619 in highway users taxes, $2,771 in cigarette taxes and $18,914 in motor vehicle fees. In comparison, Oceanside with a slightly higher population received $45,116 in highway users taxes, $9,595 in cigarette taxes and $52,146 in motor vehicle fees.

Highway users taxes are derived from gasoline tax, diesel fuel tax and miscellaneous income and are to be used for street and highway construction and repair only.

Motor vehicle fees, which take the place in lieu of local property tax on motor vehicles, are levied at the rate of $2 per $100 of market value and returned to cities and counties after deduction of a portion to cover administration fees.

Local Firm Grows

Last year was a year for growth for SGS Real Estate Co., Inc. The firm, with headquarters in Lemon Grove and eight sales offices scattered throughout the county, reported a 13 per cent increase in the number of transactions during 1976 over the previous year.

In dollar volume, the realty achieved a $14.1 million increase in sales in 1976 and saw listings increase by $22.6 million.

"We owe much of the credit for our growth to the addition of our seventh and eighth offices in Mira Mesa and San tee," said John Stenbeck, chairman of the board at SGS.

The realty is the local affiliate of Berg Enterprises, listed on the American Stock Exchange.

PersonaLine Expands

Bank of America's PersonaLine Credit plan passed the $100 million mark in January, surpassing the bank's target figures by 50%, a spokesman said.

Under the PersonaLine Credit plan funds are made available to individuals for automobile purchases, home improvement, education and other long-term personal needs. Since the plan's introduction in July 1975 nearly 30,000 lines of credit have been opened.

OSHA's Pocatello Roadblock

By State Senator Bill Richardson

While the media has been centering its attention on the activities in Washington, D.C. the past few weeks, the real news was being made in Pocatello, Idaho.

That's right, Pocatello — home of F. G. Barlow and the Barlow Plumbing and Heating Co. Not many folks had heard of F. G. Barlow outside of Pocatello until recently, but mention his name to an employee of the Occupational Safety and Health Agency (OSHA) and it is certain to elicit a groan.

It all began on September 11, 1975, when Daniel T. Sanger, OSHA Compliance Officer, arrived at Mr. Barlow's place of business and announced his intention to conduct an inspection. Now F. G. Barlow hadn't gotten around to reading the 3,400 separate OSHA regulations, but he had read the United States Constitution. Article Four of that document affirms that, "The right of the people to be secure in their persons, houses, papers, and effects, against unreasonable searches and seizures, shall not be violated, and no warrants shall issue, but upon probable cause, supported by oath or affirmation, and particularly described the place to be searched, and the person or things to be seized."

OSHA, or as it is known in California, Cal-OSHA, conducts hundreds of such unconstitutional searches every day. In Mr. Barlow's case, no complaint had been filed, no probable cause was evident and OSHA had not even secured a search warrant. Citing the Constitution as his sole authority and defense, F. G. Barlow refused to allow Compliance Officer Sanger access to his property.

Court Order

On December 13, the Secretary of Labor secured a federal court order to compel entry, inspection and investigation of the Barlow premises. With a copy of the Constitution in his back pocket, Barlow again refused and was cited for contempt of court, a charge which may well have been an accurate description of his attitude.

The case was referred to a panel of three federal judges which, on December 30, 1976, more than a year after the incident in Pocatello, ruled in favor of F. G. Barlow and the Fourth Amendment. The proceedings had been expensive and time-consuming but Barlow believed that he was right.

The decision of the Idaho court declared that Section 8 of the Occupational Safety and Health Act was unconstitutional. Accordingly, OSHA suspended inspections in the State of Idaho.

The question before us then, is why should California farmers and businessmen continue to suffer unreasonable searches and heavy fines while their counterparts in Idaho have been exempted? Isn't that a violation of the "equal protection of the law" provisions of the Constitution?

It certainly is and the time has come to put an end to it. On Wednesday, January 19, 1977, a district court in the State of Utah declared OSHA unconstitutional, stating the Fourth, Fifth and Seventh Amendments.

2nd Class Citizens?

Yet, in California, the inspections and fines continue. Why? Are Californians second-class citizens? Is Cal-OSHA exempt from the restrictions of the U. S. Constitution—restrictions designed to protect the civil liberties of the American citizen?

In their summary conclusions, the Idaho Federal Court states that, "The Secretary of Labor of the United States of America, and all defendants, and their successors in office, and all other persons acting by, through or under them, are hereby forever and permanently restrained and enjoined . . . from acting or attempting to act pursuant or in furtherance of Section 8 (a) of the Occupational Safety and Health Act and from conducting or attempting to conduct any general searches or inspections of the non-public portions of the premises or the plaintiff herein pursuant to Section 8 (a) of the Occupational Safety and Health Act of 1970."

Is Cal-OSHA exempt from the Constitution? May this quasi-legal army of inspectors and busybodies continue to harass and fine the citizens of California in defiance of the federal court decisions and the Constitution? It is time to roll back the tide of government regulations and harassment . . . and I can't think of a better place to start than with Cal-OSHA.

SDG&E Testifies Last Thursday On What They Are Doing With Solar

San Diego Gas and Electric Company participated in a two day hearing beginning last Thursday, January 27 on the feasibility of solar energy.

The conference, to be held in the State Building 1350 Front st. at 10 a.m. today, will include studies done by industry and utility companies.

Bike Tests Today

At Monterey Heights

Fifty Lemon Grove students are participating in a bicycle safety program designed to curb bike injuries and encourage greater rider responsiveness. It starts today at 1 p.m.

Jerry Long (district manager for the Automobile Club of Southern California, said the Auto Club's "Bicycle Safety Lane" will be at Monterey Heights School, 7550 Canton dr.

Using a modified dynamometer, similar to those used in checking automobiles, the unique Bicycle Safety Lane tests such important bike safety features as wheel and frame alignment, spokes, bearings and brakes. Handlebars, grips, lights and reflectors are checked visually at the same time.

"Provided annually to more than 45,000 cyclists in Southern California, this free Auto Club service stimulates an awareness of safe cycling and alerts students and parents to needed repairs or desirable safety accessories," Long added.

conducted the hearings. Robert Ladner, SDG&E's solar energy project manager represented SDG&E in the hearings.

In a prepared statement Ladner told the Commission, "SDG&E's overall solar energy objective is to assist our customers in evaluating, purchasing and maintaining solar energy systems which are effective as a supplemental source of energy and which complement our existing energy systems."

Country Furniture-Making Thrives Here

By Joan Broyles

Lemon Grove is the home of the largest maker in this area of handcrafted California Country Furniture, a line featuring the rustic, rugged look.

The firm opened shop here August as the Woodbutchers Furniture Works at 7704 North ave.

And, the co-owners, Jim Frey and Rick Carter, have announced plans to begin operation of a retail outlet center at the corner of Olive st. and Broadway around March 1.

The furniture, most of it custom-made, is unique for at least two reasons: the finishing process used on it and its low cost.

"Our ready supply of raw materials and construction technique allow us to produce one of the lowest-priced lines of custom-made furniture around," Frey commented.

Bureau Changes Name

The Bureau of Home Appliances of S.D. County is changing its name to the Energy Products and Services Assn. (EP&SA). Jack Kidd, Executive Vice President of the 380 member trade organization, said: The change will better describe the expanded activities of the Bureau.

"We've grown far beyond the home appliance field," he said. "Our sphere of influence now includes air conditioning, electrical construction, home modernization, television and other electronics — and home appliances."

In order to facilitate its expansion EP&SA is moving to larger quarters at 861 6th ave., Suite 403.
